Teen-ager Shoots Elderly Dice Lady

"Told Lies on Me" 18-Year-Old Says

An 18-year-old Dice youth said he shot Mrs. Cynthia Whitaker, 61, also of Dice, in the back with a shotgun "because she has been telling lies on me since I was a little boy."

Bobby Logan Neace is being held in Perry County jail for shooting and wounding Mrs. Whitaker Tuesday. She is in fair condition in the Mt. Mary Hospital with wounds in her back and shoulder.

State Police gave this account: Monday, young Neace shot into the Whitaker home at Dice two times with the same 12 gauge shotgun he later wounded her with.

Tuesday, about 1:30 p.m., as Mrs. Whitaker and her husband were sitting on the front porch of their home, Neace walked to within 100 feet on the porch, aimed and fired once.

About three hours later, Neace gave himself up and was placed in the county jail.

State Police Detective Orlester Mahoney said Neace repeated several times that Mrs. Whitaker had always told lies on him. County jail authorities said Neace told them he "didn't mean to shoot her so hard."

Troopers Otis Anderson and London Owens worked with Mahoney on the case.

Methodists Plan "Piano Rally"

A "Piano Rally" to pay off the indebtedness on the piano at the Phillips Methodist Church will be held Oct. 5 at the church.

Each family in the church is asked to pay $20 per family or $10 per member on or before this date. Mrs. Willie Mae Nunn, church secretary, announced this week.

Rhema Mitchell Wins Golf Trophy

Rhema Mitchell, of Hazard, was the only woman golfer to bring home a trophy from the recent fifth renewal of the Eastern Kentucky Ladies Golf Association tournament at the Elkhorn Country Club recently.

The Hazard golfer was low putter in the second flight of the 36-hole tourney, and she received a silver award for her effort.

Thirty eight golfers from Hazard, Paintsville, Wheelwright, Pikeville and Jenkins competed in the annual medal tournament over a water-logged course. Rain continued through most of the two day meet, and playing conditions caused golfers' scores to soar far above their usual game.

Guests were introduced by Past Master William Wright. The welcome was given by County Judge J. A. Smith and the response by Past Grand Master James W. Hall.

Ad Correction

An advertisement listed in today's Hazard Herald lists an incorrect date for the auction sale to be held for the auction of the apartment house owned by Mrs. Mary French.

The wrong date is listed as Aug. 23. The correct date is Saturday, Aug. 30, one week later. The Herald regrets this error and calls the attention of the public to it.

Perry Countian Has Drama "Role"

Elvin Combs Drives Berea College Bus

When the current Wilderness Road season ends on Aug. 30 at Berea, it will mean the end of many of the special guided tours which are conducted only during the drama season.

The man who has traveled more miles than anyone connected with guided tours (or Wilderness Road, for that matter) is Elvin Combs who will have driven the Berea College tour bus over 12,000 miles since the play first opened in 1955.

Combs, a graduate of Vico High School and a veteran of World War II is both well-known and well-liked on the Berea College campus where he is Clerk of the Athletic Department, coach of the Wilderness Road baseball team, and bus driver whenever Berea athletes leave town in search of competition. His specialty is squash and in this field he has trouble finding enough competition to make it worth his while, having defeated all the local experts. To date, Combs has taken 8379 tourists on drives around the famous campus and in the scenic rocky countryside. He is looking time taking care of the athletic equipment, stringing rackets, and educating those who try to take his squash supremacy away from him.

Wilderness Road runs nightly, except Sundays, through August. Performances begin at 8:15

Shriners Plan Annual Fish Fry

Members of the Hazard Shrine Club will hold their annual fish fry for members and guest on Sept. 8 at the Hazard Airport, Curt Feltner, president announced this week.

Feltner named a committee of four, Elmer Roll, Sam Garrett, Fred Vesico and Bobby Turner, in charge of arrangements.

Craft May Be Candidate Again

Former State Senator Archie Craft of Whitesburg informs The Herald that he is again considering the race for the office of State Senator, representing the Perry-Letcher District.

Mr. Craft, a democrat, served as Senator from 1951 - 1955. He is a prominent business man of Letcher County, being the operator of two funeral home establishments, one located in Neon, the other in Whitesburg.

Mr. Calvin Zonger

Baptist Leader At University To Speak Here

Mr. Calvin Zonger, director of the Baptist Student Union at the University of Kentucky, will be the principal speaker at the two morning services during "Off To College Day," being sponsored here Sunday by the First Baptist Church.

A native of Tulsa, Okla., Mr. Zonger graduated from Oklahoma A & M. with a bachelor of science degree. He later attended the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, where he received a bachelor of divinity degree and master of theology.

He is married to the former Rose Ayles, of San Diego, Calif. Evening Services The evening services for the day's program will be conducted by the Rev. Louis Walters. Mr. Walters is a graduate of the S.B.T.S. and is now pastor of the Lake Dreamland Baptist Church, Louisville. He is married to the former Miss Dorothy Frost, of Hazard.

East Kentucky Area Should Help Self E.K.R.P.C. Says Here

Meeting Marked By Bold Propositions

The Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission celebrated its first birthday in Hazard yesterday with a La Citadelle luncheon and a day-long meeting marked by bold propositions and dreams for Eastern Kentucky's future.

More than 30 visiting state office holders, mayors and former governors swelled the attendance at the morning session and La Citadelle's spacious dining room was overflowing with guests who joined the Commission there for the buffet luncheon.

Two conclusions seemed outstanding after several Commissioners and guests were heard during the day: 1. Eastern Kentucky is not yet ready to receive large industries; 2. Eastern Kentuckians are going to have to help themselves if their welfare is to improve.

Hazard's L. O. Davis probably brought the first point home most clearly when he said: "Eastern Kentucky will be no better than the people in it."

Too Few With Faith

Davis said too few people in this region had faith in their homeland, faith enough to invest personal capital in it. He compared the Area's present situation to that of Miami, Florida several years ago when that town appeared dead. He described how that town grew and prospered because people had enough faith in future to invest and invest heavily.

John Whisman, executive director of the Planning Commission, got the meeting under way in the new office by briefly recounting accomplishments Commission has made in its first year. Among them were the establishment of a flash flood warning system he said was working well; beginning of a fish-trap dam program; and the setting forth of a series of general recommendations for an Eastern Kentucky highway program.

Whisman said he felt the commission "had gotten through" to Ward Oates, state commissioner of highways, the basic wants of people in this region as far as roads were concerned, and that Oates has given the recommendations top priority in his office.

"Dream Road" Discussed

The subject of road improvement for the area was a major topic of discussion at the commission meeting. A "dream" road to run 100 miles along the crest of Pine Mountain from Elkhorn City to Pineville was discussed at length and was not ruled out of the realm of eventuality. Director Whisman was instructed to investigate the approximate total cost of such a road project.

Walter L. Shouse, commissioner of the Division of Planning and Zoning within the Department of Economic Security, reported that requests from Eastern Kentucky cities for aid in urban renewal projects were on the increase, and he attributed much of the interest of the

Old Campaigners Speak

Ex-Governors

Two former Governors of Kentucky were heard yesterday at a luncheon at La Citadelle, where more than 140 gathered to help the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission celebrate its first anniversary.

In short talks, both Simeon Willis and Flen Samson said Eastern Kentuckians must work to help themselves. "The people must do the work that makes the country," Willis, of Ashland, said.

Samson, an Eastern Kentuckian himself from Barbourville, said the new motel, La Citadelle should be looked upon as an example of what private initiative can do.

The luncheon was sponsored by Hazard banks.

people in those cities to the EKRPC.

To Spur Housing Act

Shouse requested the Commission to consider contacting the House of Representatives and the Senate in Washington to support the Housing Act of 1958 that at present is bogged down in a Congressional committee.

The bill, if passed, will provide for additional funds for urban renewal projects. Shouse said the passage of the bill was very important for Eastern Kentucky.

Harry LaViers of Paintsville found interested listeners with his statement that he had reconciled himself to Eastern Kentucky having "satellite industries," or subsidiary plants to larger ones in Central Kentucky. He said he was convinced that the Lexington area is destined to draw factories in the future as it doing now, and that Eastern Kentucky would be ideal for smaller plants employing no more than 200-300 men to make small parts.

Planning Commissioners present were B. F. Reed, Drift; the Rev. W. F. Hule, Corbin; R. H. Worden, Pikeville; Rexford Blazer, Ashland; L. O. Davis, Hazard; S. C. VanCuren, Harlan; Harry LaViers, Paintsville.

Deputies Destroy Grapevine Still

A 120 gallon still was destroyed at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night on Roam's Branch of Grapevine Creek by deputies of the Perry County Sheriff's office.

A warrant has been issued for E. J. Hensley, Deputy Sheriff Paul Fugate said.

Fugate said the still was found 300 yards from Hensley's house. A path, he said, led directly from the house to the still.

Deputies destroyed all equipment but the worm and tore down a one-foot dam on Roam's creek that was backing up water for the still operation.

Assisting Fugate in the raid were deputies Yancey Amis, Estill Sudham and Bobby Cisco.

Commission Asked To Endorse Plan For Flood Control

P. L. Johnson, of Hazard, yesterday asked the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission to endorse a plan he has formulated for protecting Hazard against floods.

Johnson asked the Commission members to add their signatures to a petition, which already bears 1500 names, which asks the Army Corps of Engineers' approval of a plan to cut an over-flow gorge by the North Fork of the Kentucky River above the city that will provide a relief avenue for high water without endangering Hazard.

The proposed spillway would be cut about 4,000 feet in length and come out below Walkertown.

Johnson has spent several weeks compiling statistics which show the extent of damage caused by the January, 1957 flood. He plans to submit his report together with the petition to the Army Corps of Engineers, whose approval, he said, is the only remaining step to getting the spillway construction under way.

The EKRPC is studying Johnson's data and request, and will probably give him an answer soon.

Hazard Is Home To Planning Group

Hazard yesterday became the permanent home of the Eastern Kentucky Regional Planning Commission as that group officially dedicated and had its first meeting in a newly-re-modeled office across from the county court house.

Hazard was selected as the headquarters for the group because it is centrally located and more convenient travel-wise for the nine men from as many Eastern Kentucky cities who make up the EKRPC.

A full-time secretary has been employed by the organization. The office is to be stocked with filed literature containing data on national and state subjects, and available to the public.

An adjoining office to that of the EKRPC is to house an area branch office of the state Division of Planning and Zoning, a subsidiary group of the Department of Economic Security.

Gail Godsey will direct the area office. He is a native Perry Countian. The Division of Planning and Zoning exists to aid cities in slum clearance and other urban renewal projects.

E.K.H.S. To Hold Annual Fair

The Floyd County Chapter of the Eastern Kentucky Historical Society will sponsor an Arts and Crafts Fair at the home of Mr. Tom James, Prestonsburg, on August 23, at 2:00 p. m.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Jillson and Charles F. Hinds of the Kentucky Historical Society. Handwork by county craftsmen will be on display. Folk games and folk singing will be held.

The public is invited.

Strong Reunion To Be Held Aug. 31

The Strong family reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 31 at Natural Bridge picnic ground.

A basket lunch will be served at noon.

Officers of the Association are: President Albert Strong, Hazard; Vice President, M. R. Strong, Charleston, Ind. and Secretary, Mrs. Ed Strong, Irvine.

Mrs. J. C. Hursh, Lexington, will have charge of the arrangements.

Children's Home Slates Reunion

Bethany Children's Home in Wolfe County has scheduled a weekend reunion Aug. 30 and 31 for an estimated 1,400 who have lived at the home since it was opened 32 years ago.

One of the features of the celebration will be the dedication of the Marjorie A. Burt Dormitory on August 31 at 2 p.m. Miss Burt is still associated with the home.

August 30, the Rev. Russell Ford, singer, preacher and chalk artist from the Cadle Tabernacle, Indianapolis, will be presidee and master of theology. The evening services for the home's history, "Roll Back The Pages," will be presented in a natural outdoor theater Friday and Saturday nights.

$50,000 To Be Sought Locally For Buckhorn Children's Home

Committee of Eight To Guide Drive, Set To Last Through December 31

A committee of eight prominent men has been named to guide a $50,000 fund drive in Perry and Leslie Counties for a new dormitory cottage at the Buckhorn school.

Announcement that the school will remain in Perry County was made here Monday night by Dr. Elmer Gabbard, of the Presbyterian Child Welfare Agency, during a banquet at La Citadelle.

Chairman for the drive will be Mack Smith, local coal operator. His committee includes L. O. Davis, vice-chairman, Dr. E. E. Begley, Dewey Daniel, Joe Eversole, Clarence Maggard, Dr. Coile Combs, all of Perry County, and Judge Elmer Begley, Leslie County. Campaign director will be E. O. McKay.

The local campaign is but one phase of a nation-wide fund drive that seeks to raise $250,000 for five new cottages at the school. Perry and Leslie countians have been asked to raise $50,000 as their share because 90 percent of the school's indigent child enrollment is from these two counties.

The local and national campaigns will open within the next two months, and close on January 1st.

Purpose of the campaign, according to Dr. Gabbard, is to make Buckhorn "one of the finest institutions for the care of children in the land."

The five cottages will house approximately 15 children and a married couple as "parents."

Dr. Gabbard explained that this is a new approach to caring for indigent children, the idea being to remove them from dormitory life and provide them with home-like living conditions.

Dr. Gabbard said that while Buckhorn "would have closed long ago but for the people of Hazard," the plant is now outdated for the needs of the region.

He drew support for his comments from L. O. Davis. Davis told the dinner audience of 60 that the school has weathered floods and fires, but that the orphanage new needs to be rebuilt.

Davis cited the "human problem as the greatest of all our problems" and said Eastern Kentucky is obligated to care and educate the homeless children of the area.

Moose Club Dance Set For Sat. Night

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

How To Prepare For Beautiful Lawns

Paul Keen, County Agricultural Extension Agent

John Caudill, Associate County Agricultural Extension Agent

Every home owner wants a good looking lawn, one that is properly graded and covered with velvety green grass because all other landscape plantings rest on the basis of a good lawn. It provides a setting, adds to the beauty of the trees, evergreens, shrubs, and flowers. A good lawn involves an investment of time, labor and a certain amount of expense. However, the expense need not be excessive if a well defined program of lawn management is followed.

Plants for Kentucky Lawns:

Kentucky bluegrass is the best grass to use on Kentucky lawns, and wherever it can be grown it should be used. There are a few sections in the state where it may be necessary to use Bermuda grass. White Dutch clover is the small companion plant used mostly as a filler for the bluegrass on the lawn. This little plant grows native all over Kentucky, and many persons will not even bother to sow the seed.

For shady sections of the lawn, either Colonial Bent grass or red chewing fescue are most often used for additional ground covers where the bluegrass may be light.

A new lawn should be properly graded, the soil prepared to a depth of at least 4 inches and worked until it is in excellent condition, free from clods, trash of any kind, etc. Then the soil should be tested to determine if lime, phosphate and potash are needed. If any or all of these materials are needed, they should be applied immediately and worked into the top 2 or 3 inches of soil.

Finely ground limestone is the best to use for supplying the calcium. If the fertility of the soil is not too high, a complete fertilizer (one containing nitrogen, phosphate and potash) should be applied and worked into the soil with the lime. Ten to 15 pounds to each 1000 square feet of surface will be the amount to apply. Your county agricultural agent should be consulted for information relative to the amount and method of application of these materials.

After the lime and fertilizer have been applied and worked into the soil, the lawn is ready for the first seed. Should the lawn be ready for seeding at any time except the first of September, it is recommended that quick-growing cover crops be used to prevent erosion and to provide a ground cover. The two plants recommended for this are annual rye grass and redtop. Both of these will germinate in a few days, produce a good ground cover and may be kept just like a bluegrass sod.

The ryegrass should be sown first, at the rate of 2½ to 3 pounds to each 1000 square feet. The lawn should be raked lightly to give these seed some cover. After the ryegrass has been seeded, and the surface raked, the red top should be sown. The amount to use is 2 to 3 ounces for each 100 square feet of surface. To sow this small amount of seed and get an even distribution, the seed should be mixed with a half-gallon of sand or dry soil. The lawn should not be raked after the redtop has been sown; however, it should be rolled with a lawn roller weighing about 400 pounds. The roller firms the soil and hastens the germination of seed.

As soon as the ryegrass is about 5 inches high, it should be clipped, and mower set to cut at least 2 inches high. It should be clipped as often as necessary to keep the lawn looking good.

About the middle of September the seeding of Kentucky bluegrass should be made, sowing one pound to each 1000 square feet of surface. The lawn should be clipped just before sowing, and if the growth is heavy it should be raked and the clippings removed. Raking should not be done to loosen the soil. The very best bluegrass seed that money can buy is the kind to use. The seed should weigh at least 21 pounds to the bushel and have a germination of 85 percent or better.

In November the new lawn should be fed, using 15 pounds of a good, high grade fertilizer to each 1000 square feet of surface. If straw is available for mulching the lawn, one bale should be used to each 1000 square feet of surface. The mulch should be applied just after the bluegrass has been seeded.

Not later than March 15, another application of fertilizer should be made, using the same amount as was applied in November. Clipping should begin when the grass is about 5 inches high, but the mower should be set to cut at least 2 inches high and be kept that way all the time.

If White Dutch clover is desired in the lawn, about 2 ounces of seed should be sown to each 1000 square feet of surface. The seed should be mixed with sand or dry soil and sown the last of March.

The following September another seeding of Kentucky bluegrass should be made, sowing one-half pound to each 1000 square feet of area.

The Old Lawn: The old lawn that has been neglected for years should be given attention. It should not be plowed or disked because these tools always damage walks and plants. All dirt and trash should be raked up and removed and if there are saw briars and big weeds, they should be dug up. If the old lawn has depressions or mounds, the depressions should be filled by bringing in soil from a field, and the mounds should be leveled. A smooth, even surface is what is wanted. It will take several years to reclaim and rejuvenate an old lawn that has been neglected.

If the sod is very light and there are bare spots, the soil should be loosened with a steel garden rake and some redtop scattered over the loosened soil. A light application of top soil scattered over the entire lawn will do wonders. If this renovation is started in the early spring, before the middle of March, the entire lawn may be fertilized by using 15 pounds of a high grade fertilizer on each 1000 square feet of surface. White Dutch clover may be sown in late March, sowing 2 ounces to each 100 square feet. A seeding of good bluegrass, one pound to each 1000 square feet, should be made in September.

Another application of fertilizer should be made in November, using 15 pounds to 1000 square feet.

The bluegrass should be left 1½ inches high at all times when cutting.

The good looking lawn demands a regular program and at definite times of the year the following things should be done to carry out schedule.

(1) Every September, regardless of how good the sod may be, some extra good bluegrass should be sown. Usually, one fourth to one-half pound of seed to each 1000 square feet

The Warfare
 by Rebecca Jones, Dongola, Ky.

Temptations, how oft they come,
 Into my doubting heart,
 And, with a power, I can't resist,
 Bids all, that is good, depart.
 The tempter whispers, "It's all in vain";
 He will not hear your prayers,
 His love is not for such as you,
 You'll never be with Him there.

Again in humble love I bow,
 And ask Him to forgive,
 Some sin that is heavy on my heart,
 And, in His love, I live.

I know that He has heard my prayers,
 The burden leaves my heart,
 Again, the cruel, doubting comes,
 Comes, and will not depart.

O, my Savior please descend,
 And melt this heart of stone,
 I feel dear Savior that from me,
 your love and care have flown.

The prayers I once poured out to you,
 In humble, love and tears,
 I know that they were answered then,
 But now, you will hear.

Or rather, I cannot pray,
 My prayers will not ascend;
 My heart is like an "iron rod",
 That I can never bend.

It is not for pleasures in this world,
 That I can't humble be,
 It's only cruel, doubting, fear,
 Life holds no joy for me.

Then, dear Savior please descend,
 And drive these doubts away,
 Let me feel your love again,
 Give ME a heart to pray.

TRUTH-AD FOR THE UNCHURCHED
 BY WINN T. BARR

Not all are lost, and not all are saved.
 God is merciful to those who ask for mercy. Jesus manifested it, the Bible declares it, the Spirit witnesses it, and you can experience it.

The reason why you can be saved by depending on Jesus, is that Jesus is God and knows when you trust Him, and He has already borne your punishment so as to be able to forgive your sins.

View That Satisfies All the Scriptures.
 1. Conversion brings eternal life. (Luke 18:9-14).
 2. Eternal life brings good works. (Rom. 6:22).
 3. Works bring rewards at Christ's return. (Matt. 16:27).

Look for a TRUTH-AD every Thursday.

Drainage Job
At Chavies

Bob Marcum

U. S. Soil Conservation Service

The first group drainage job in Perry County is now underway at Chavies, under the supervision of the SCS. A new creek channel is being cut on Grapevine Creek through the farms of Ira, Jack, and Doris Duff. The old creek channel is completely filled with brush, logs, sand, silt, and gravel deposits. This has caused very poor drainage of the bottom land and has prevented the farmers from using the land for the crops that it is capable of producing.

The channel is being constructed as designed by SCS Engineers to take care of 9000 acres watershed. Don Duff, Supervisor of the Perry County Soil Conservation District, was very active in getting the job underway. Ira, Zack and Doris are cooperators with the Perry Co-untly S. C. D.

The Perry County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee is cost-sharing with the Duffs on this job.
 The size of the new channel, when completed, will be approximately one and one-half miles long, will average approximately 45 feet top-width with three to one side slopes and approximately seven feet deep.

Christ Is The Answer

By Winn T. Barr

Sometimes I wonder if we really know the significance of this slogan. When we say "Christ is the answer," what do we really mean? What do we mean by "Christ"? Does it mean that the tradition of Christ is the answer? Christ has indeed become a legend among men. His story has been handed down generation after generation. And there is wisdom in this story for every life situation in which we might find ourselves. But we mean far more than this when we say that Christ is the answer.

Does it mean that the truth about Christ is the answer? We believe that the gospel consists of historical truths which were events in time. And these truths are necessary to our salvation. But we mean far more than this when we say that Christ is the answer.

Does it mean that the ideal of Christ is the answer? Christ is indeed an example and we are to follow in His steps. He is an image, a hope, a goal, a standard in our minds. But we mean far more than this when we say that Christ is the answer.

Does it mean that Christian organization is the answer? It is true that we are social beings and we need the fellowship of the church. This is absolutely necessary to the utmost sanctification and fruitfulness.
 But we mean far more than this when we say that Christ is the answer.

 meetings with unorganized groups on subjects related to the home and family where there is interest. There may be from one to six such meetings

Ball Creek Residents Must Consider Child's Interests

While this newspaper can sympathize with the residents of Ball Creek and understand their concern for the closing of the Ball Creek school, we must fully endorse the county board's and State board's action in doing away with the school.

The days of the one-room rural school are numbered. And this is as it should be.

Besides being to expensive to operate and maintain, they have another short-coming which is all too obvious to educators throughout the nation—the schools cannot provide the level of training and education needed by a student in the 20th Century world.

A Hard Facts of Life

This is certainly no reflection upon the students or the teachers. It is instead one of the hard facts of life which educators now recognize must be coped with if the educational standards of our children are to be raised.

In closing Ball Creek and other rural one and two-room schools in this and adjoining counties, the county boards of education are endeavoring not only to comply with Kentucky law, but to insure that our children have the opportunities for an education that will equip them to meet the demands of present and future generation.

We would remind the parents at Ball Creek, and elsewhere, that the obligation of parenthood today includes, if necessary, self sacrifice to insure that their children receive the best education possible.

Too Far To Travel?

The objection has been raised by some parents that their children will now have to travel a mile and one-half by bus to the Robinson School. Certainly, this reasoning does not justify keeping the Ball Creek School open. Facilities at Robinson are unquestionably superior to those at Ball Creek. And a mile and one-half is not any distance when measured from the standpoint that educational opportunities are high at Robinson.

The residents of Ball Creek can carry their case to the State Board of Education, and there plead that the Ball Creek School be kept open.

But before to much of a storm is kicked-up over the closing of the Ball Creek School, we would ask that each parent examine his own conscience, and to ask himself this question:

"What is in the best interests of my child's education?"

Your Child Comes First

If you believe that your child's education comes first, as you should believe, then you cannot help but go along with the closing of the Ball Creek School.

In the interest of your children and their future well-being, don't let your own personal wishes and minor inconveniences guide your decision. In education, your child's interests must come first!

To Go Along With Voting Machine Purgation

The decision by the county to go along with the city on the purchase of voting machines is to be commended by all forward thinking taxpayers. While only six machines are to be purchased for the present, the ultimate objective is voting machines for the entire county.

A small fortune in election costs will be saved when the entire county votes through the machines. While the initial cost of the machines may seem high—$1,733—they will more than pay for themselves.

Cuts Costs of Election

The machines will eliminate at least 50 percent of the election officers, virtually all of the tabulators and counters, and slice election printing costs considerably. Then, too, there's the advantage of knowing election results within hours after the polls close.

Only one other action remains to be taken to put the city and county's voting machinery in right order—purgation of the voting lists as required by Kentucky law.

It is a disgrace to the county that it has been at least 12 years since the voting lists have been purged. Yes, there have been and is a Purgation Board charged with the tedious, and even thankless, task of purging the lists—but none have ever before completed the job.

Party Politics

In past years, the board's meetings have been marked by petty politics, jealousies, and the desire of each party to maintain superiority over the other. This is hardly in the spirit of our democratic form of government and unfortunately leaves the door open for election abuses, including crooked elections.

At present, the county's voting lists include the names of thousands who are no longer legal voters in Perry County. Many have died or moved away. There are women registered under their married and maiden names. To write that the opportunity is available to "vote the dead in Perry County," is putting it mildly.

Failure of Board

And then, too, there is the cost of having to print ballots for the deceased and unqualified voters. Through no fault of any county official, these ballots must be printed—a needless waste of the taxpayers' money—a waste created because the Purgation Board has never completed its job.

We can only urge here that the Purgation Board start work immediately and strike off the voting lists the thousands of names that do not belong there.

We are confident they can accomplish the work if they'll remember that they are performing an important task for the county taxpayers and will agree to put party politics aside in the interest of the people of Perry County.

One Woman's Warning With Acute Polio

"While I was in the acute stage of polio, I vowed that if I lived I would write down my experiences with this terrible disease. Before the Salk vaccine there would have been no purpose in sharing my suffering with others. But now it should serve as a warning."

This is how Elizabeth Anderson, 37, a New Jersey housewife and mother of a two-year-old daughter, begins her account of her heartbreaking struggle with polio.

Stricken just before Thanksgiving in 1955, Mrs. Anderson endured weeks of "terrifying panic." Her story, printed in the monthly News of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, continues: "I had hallucinations that I was riding a train upside down. Ten days after I went in the iron lung I felt sure the end was near. That night it seemed my face was turning to cement. I spent the next several hours moving my jaws and face and wiggling my tongue. After that my arms and legs became paralyzed."

"Today I have one-third of my normal breathing capacity and use a rocking bed at night. I can move my feet around and stand without braces. My left arm I cannot use at all, but I can use my right arm from the elbow down. None of my fingers bend, but I manage to turn pages with my right hand."

"Not long ago a man said to me: 'Don't you hate the world because this has happened to you?' I admit that I've shed many bitter tears. Sometimes I feel like a spectator sitting on the side lines watching the game of life, but I still find it a fascinating game."

"It is inconceivable to me that people neglect their polio shots. Even after reading my experience I'm afraid some of them will. I know—I didn't think polio could happen to me. But it did!"

Old age may be a hindrance to a person's wanting to swim, but Jess Morgan has proved that the sacrament of baptism recognizes no age limit.

The Rev. Ed Baker, now of Oneida, is a relative of the Morgan's. Mr. Morgan decided that he had put off the act too long and he should take advantage of having a preacher in the family.

Mrs. McIntosh, who has cared for her father the past 13 years, said he was unable to be taken out of the house at the time, so some relatives, not to be held back by such a minor detail as the lack of a baptistry, quickly set to work to fashion a water container right there in the living room of Mrs. McIntosh's house.

In Forthcoming City Election Primary Cream Of Crop Available For Voters

The forthcoming city election is unusual in at least one respect; that is some of the finest men in the city are on the ticket for a term that will last but one year.

The problem for many voters will be selecting two names from the available list.

Unfortunately, because of the high quality of the candidates, it appears that a bad situation is already developing. We have heard several voters comment that they'll be staying away from the polls because they don't want to have to choose from the available list.

Deciding who to vote for will be a tough decision for all of us to make, but shunning the decision is avoiding the responsibilities attached to living under our democratic form of government. We can only encourage the voters to cast their ballots; please don't stay away from the polls for fear of offending one of the candidates.

For those who do stay away, then lets hear no comments from you within the next year on what you would do if you were running the city.

And Then Comes One Like This!

In the course of a week, this scribe will open well over 500 pieces of mail, most of which comes from people, pressure groups, business, labor, manufacturing firms, etc.—all wanting free publicity for their products or goals.

Almost all of this junk ends up in our trash.

Saturday, however, I ripped open a letter and out came the photograph you see printed below. It struck my fancy because I honestly don't believe I've ever before seen such a marvelous photograph of an engine. It develops 400 foot pounds of torque at 2800 rpm's, has 383 cubic inches of displacement, 4.12 inch bore, and a ten to one compression ratio.

Oh, incidentally, the girl, July Bamber, is 5-5, 112 pounds, 38-22-36 and will be seen in a new television show "Anybody Can Play." But I'm sure that doesn't concern anyone, since it didn't interest me!

And I Wish I'd Said:

"Ignorance is so hard to conceal because people always try to hide it in public places." Raymond Duncan.

"Wives often lead double lives—their own and their husbands." Charles Ruffing.

"The best reason for holding your chin up when in trouble is that it keeps the mouth closed." Ivern Boyett.

"American are people who wish we would go back to letting Atlas support the world." Jack Herbert.

LETTER

Phone Service Brings Sharp Comment

I would like to add my say to your editorial in the Herald, Aug. 14, with regards to the rate increase being sought by General Telephone Co.

I think one of the most unjust acts of the Public Service Commission will be when they allow the increase to take effect—which I feel they will permit since my past experience with the Commission leaves no doubt in my mind but that they are all out for General Telephone Co. and have no regards for the welfare of the general public.

I wrote the Hazard office for a private telephone in early 1956 and was promised immediate service. A month later, I notified them I was going into the funeral business and would need a phone by June, 1957. This, they promised me, and even went so far to figure the construction cost at $825.00. They never made any attempt to provide me with the service.

Petition Circulated

In July, 1957, I circulated a petition among the subscribers of line 1814 and on July 8th, I personally presented a copy of the petition to the personal secretary of Lt. Governor Waterfield, and the other copy to the secretary of the commission, Mr. Joseph Taylor. Both promised me they would see that I was furnished the private line so I could carry on my business. I never heard from either man. Later, I received a letter from the Lexington office of General Telephone informing me that I would be required to pay the sum of 75 cents per one-fourth mile per month plus $1,500 in advance for phone service.

I feel that the public is supposed to be served by General Telephone Co. and that the firm is already being allowed more than they deserve for the kind of service they are providing. My line No. 1814 has 20 subscribers and the line will average being out of order at least eight to ten days each month—sometimes five and six days straight this past month. Since receiving our last bill, we have been without service for 8 days.

Regardless of how many days the line is out of order, they bill you for the full month and it takes from one to four trips into Hazard before they will make any repairs, even though the operators know within ten minutes when the line is out of order.

45-Minutes Needed

You stated in your editorial that it often takes five minutes to get the operator. You should be on one of our party lines. I have timed it and have tried steadily for 45-minutes before getting the operator to answer.

I wish I could have known when the hearing was to have been held, so I could have appeared as a witness but I guess they would have seen to it that anyone who could have really given them the truth about conditions here would not have been permitted to testify.

Under the laws of our State governing the Public Service Commission, the petition I presented to them required a public hearing. This I asked for, but did not get. Apparently, Mr. Taylor favors the telephone company.

I would like for them to try to operate a business of my kind where they are to receive and send emergency calls on a line of nineteen other subscribers and see what would happen if they were in my place and I in theirs. I know—I would lose my franchise within 30 days.

Waning Years Are Spent At Home of Daughter

for her father usually win out in the end, and Mrs. McIntosh will return the smoking instrument to the obvious delight of a man who has little else with which to while away his remaining days.

The century-old man, who was a boy of 11 when Abraham Lincoln was assassinated and 49 when the Wright brother's invented the airplane, hasn't needed a doctor's attention in more than a year.

More Hiding Tactics

As a young man, Mr. Morgan farmed on Leslie County hillsides and river bottoms, and did some logging at times. Even as he approached his hundredth year, he attempted to raise a small garden, and again Mrs. McIntosh had to resort to hiding tactics by disposing of the garden hoe when it became obvious that her father should not be laboring out in the sun.

So the withered old man has gradually resigned himself from an active outdoor life to one of patiently sitting in a chair, silently smoking. Even when his daughter asked him to take a walk outside with her one day, he declined, cleverly excusing himself by saying he did not want to get his shoes muddy. He hasn't been out of the house since last fall.

VIPER

Return From Tour To Canada

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Halcomb and family last weekend. We are sorry to hear that Mr. E. S. Whisman is in the hospital. He gave his family quite a scare last Saturday. It seems he came in from work and upon entering the house, he fell to the floor. The doctors were not positive as to the cause but we do hope it doesn't turn out to be anything serious and that he is home again soon.

Mr. Curt Combs and daughter, Grazie have returned from a two weeks tour of North Eastern U. S. and Canada. Miss Combs says Niagara Falls is really something. They visited Toronto and attended three theatrical performances. One was a Shakespearean play which she enjoyed very much. Mr. Combs says the fishing was ok but for once in his life he had enough of it.

I'd like to hear from some of your squirrel hunters. See who can come through with the best tale about your hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. George Caudill were called to Dayton, Ky., due to the illness of their grandchild.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nichols, son of Black Mountain, visited Mrs. Nichols' son, Pat. Quisenberry

You know or at least most people that know me know that I used to be a heavy drinker, but I'm on the wagon at present, anyhow a friend of mine I met Saturday said to me, John, you can give your wife $18 to buy a gallon of good whiskey then buy all your drinks from her at the current price of 30c per drink. There are 96 drinks in a gallon. By the time you have guzzled the first gallon she will have $30 in the bank and $18 to start in business again. Should you live ten years and continue to give your booze from your wife she will have enough money to give you a decent burial. Educate your children, buy a car, house and lot and marry a respectable man after you die with snakes in your boots.

Mercury lets you stretch out while stretching your dollar

COME IN! LET US SHOW YOU HOW TO LIVE BIG...DRIVE BIG...ON A SMALL BUDGET

Six people can fit in almost any standard-size car today. But how often have you been comfortable with more than four passengers?

Mercury gives you extra inches inside to eliminate the "squeeze." Six adults can sit back without touching.

Extra comfort is just one example of Mercury's approach to building cars. Mercury gives you more than you might expect—more than ordinary cars offer.

You'll find this equally true of Mercury's performance and ride. Mercury's Marauder V-8 engines (up to 360 hp) are the most advanced in the industry—give you more power from less gas. Mercury's ride is a Full-Cushion ride—full-time smoothness on any road.

The price? It's never been easier to own a Mercury.
